About the Players

(in Alphabetical Order)

David Abrams (Conrad Jarrett) is appearing in his first lead role, but he has a track record of interesting roles. His voice came from inside the mighty dragon of "The Hobbit." He also made a memorable squeaky door in the ensemble play, "Wiley and the Hairy Man." David is a sophomore at Wilson Hall School.

Eric Bultman (Doctor Berger) has not appeared on the Sumter Little Theatre stage since he was in the youth production of "Canterbury Tales" about 15 years ago. Eric has returned to Sumter after several years in the "Big Apple." Welcome home, Eric.

Jasen Clutts (Joë Lazenby) is a Shaw dependent and was the hairy man of "Wiley and the Hairy Man." He also assisted backstage during last year's production of "The Hobbit." Jasen is a rising junior at Sumter High where he is very active in sports.

Shannon Drysdale (Karen Aldrich) is a sophomore at Thomas Sumter Academy and a veteran of the SLT stage. She appeared in "Alice in Wonderland," "Best Christmas Pageant Ever," "The Hobbit" and "West Side Story." In her spare time, Shannon works as a model.

Selena McCoy (Jeannine Pratt) is a dedicated drama student and has several plays to her credit. She last appeared in "West Side Story" as a girl friend of a gang member. She works part-time at Chick-Fil-A at the Mall. She will be a senior at Sumter High School next year.

Tregg Player (Kevin Stillman) made his debut on the SLT stage in "West Side Story," where he was referred to as "the tall blond kid with the crazy legs." Tregg's sense of humor never allowed for a quiet rehearsal. He is presently a sophomore at Sumter High.

David O'Brien (Cal Jarrett) is THE history teacher at Sumter High School, according to some sources. His last stage performance was in "Brigadoon" in 1987. He also appeared in "Annie" as a policeman.

Richard Ray (Coach Salan) is an employee of Jackson Industries in Columbia. He and his wife, Jeanne, are the proud parents of 2-year-old Philip. Richard was last on stage in '82 with USC-Sumter in "Imaginary Invalid."

Sha Steele (Beth Jarrett) is playing her second role for the SLT stage. She appeared in a 1-Act "Lou Gehrig Did Not Die of Cancer," last summer. She is employed with B.L. Montague Co. in the accounts receivable department. Sha is a graduate of Winthrop College.
